

Combinatorics Seminar

Ranks of matrices with few distinct entries

Boris Bukh (Carnegie Mellon University)

Abstract: Many applications of the linear algebra method to combinatorics rely on the bounds on ranks of matrices with few distinct entries and constant diagonal. In this talk, I will explain some of these application. I will also present a classification of sets L for which no low-rank matrix with entries in L exists.

Monday, April 17 at 2:00 PM in SEO 612